This Silvaner fills the goblet with aromatic depth and complexity. Kitchen herbs like chervil, dill and borage interplay with fruit such as nectarines, yellow apples and green tangerines. The longer it is aired, the more tremendously multilayered it gets. On the palate, volcanic porphyry provides a racy drinking pleasure, despite its generous presence. Ample chewiness, a smoky-salty and cool finish.

A versatile treasure trove with strongly aromatic, creative vegetable cuisine. It also provides relaxed but appropriate company for stockfish, deftly seasoned Mediterranean cuisine and poultry.
